TWELFTH ANNUAL REPORT.

To the Select and Common Councils of the City of Philadelphia :

THE Directors of the Girard College for Orphans respectfully present to Councils their containing a statement of the condition and progress of that Institution during the past year.

Since their last Report, health, order and general contentment have prevailed among the orphans. Under the restraints of a salutary parental discipline, nothing has occurred to mar the peace and harmony of the Institution ; and the pupils have prosecuted their studies with commendable diligence and success. No epidemic or contagious disease has appeared, and but one of the inmates of the College has been removed by death. This signal manifestation of the Divine protection, in a family numbering more than four hundred persons, is cause of heartfelt gratitude to the Supreme Being.

Twelve years have elapsed since the College was first opened for the reception of orphans ; and about fifty, who were admitted at that time, have completed the term of their apprenticeship and assumed the responsibilities of manhood. The number of these will henceforth increase every year, and at no distant day the graduates of Girard College will become a positive force in the community. The Directors cannot but feel a lively interest in the success of these young men, who are their foster-sons, and a watchful solicitude as to the manner in which they will acquit themselves as members of society, as heads of families, and as citizens of the Commonwealth. Their own fidelity to the high trust which has been reposed in them, and the usefulness of the Institution which has occupied so much of their time and thoughts, are to be judged by the character of those who have been reared and instructed under their direction, after these shall have taken their position in life. They are encouraged by the examples of industry, capacity, skill and moral worth which these young men have already exhibited, to believe that a large majority of them will become useful citizens, and that not a few will prove an honor to the College and to the memory of its founder.

A list of these persons is appended to this report.

At the date of the last annual report, the number of orphans residing in the College was three hundred and thirty. Since that time, sixty one have been admitted; twenty eight have been bound out; four have been removed by their friends, their indentures having been canceled; ten have been dismissed for cause; and one has died. The number now in the College is three hundred and forty eight. Of these, sixty nine are receiving instruction in the academical department; one hundred and one in the first primary school; one hundred and thirty nine in the second primary school; and thirty nine in the third primary school.

A catalogue of all the pupils is appended to this report, with the dates of their birth, the dates of their admission, and the numbers which indicate their relative scholarship and conduct during the past year. The scholarship numbers are found as follows: Every lesson is marked by the teachers on a scale from zero to ten, and the average of these numbers is recorded monthly for every pupil. The number obtained at each half-yearly examination is combined with five monthly averages to obtain the term average; and the average of two term averages gives the yearly average for scholarship which is appended to the name of each pupil on the catalogue. To find the relative conduct marks, the process is different. A record of all demerit marks is kept, and at the end of the year the sum of these is subtracted from a thousand and the remainder divided by ten. The quotient represents the deportment of the pupil, so far as it has come under the observation of the officers, on a scale from zero to ten.

For the purpose of instruction, the pupils are divided into four schools, which are designated the principal, or academical department, and three primary schools. The academical department is subdivided into six classes. The officers of this school are a principal, who gives instruction in the natural sciences; an instructor in writing, bookkeeping, and drawing; an instructor in mathematics; an instructor in modern languages; an instructor in the common English branches; and a teacher of vocal music, who also gives instruction in the primary schools. Candidates for promotion from the primary schools to this department must be not less than twelve years of age, and must pass a satisfactory examination in reading, writing, geography, history, English grammar, arithmetic, and algebra through equations of the first degree. The course of study occupies three years, and includes the following branches:

English Studies.—Reading, English Grammar, English Composition, History, Descriptive Geography, and the Constitutions of the United States and Pennsylvania.

Mathematics.—Arithmetic, Algebra, Geometry, Plane and Spherical Trigonometry, Conic Sections, Surveying, and Navigation.

Modern Languages.—French and Spanish Grammar, Translation and Composition.

Graphics.—Linear and Perspective Drawing and Shading; Mechanical Drawing, Draughting, and Designing; Plain and Ornamental Penmanship; Theoretical and Practical Bookkeeping.

Natural Science.—Natural Philosophy and Chemistry, with Lectures and Experiments; Botany, Zoology, Geology, Astronomy, Physical Geography, Animal and Vegetable Physiology.

At the date of the last report, the number of pupils in the academical department was seventy nine. Since that time, twenty two have been admitted from the first primary school; four have been dismissed; the indentures of four have been canceled; and twenty four have been bound out. The present number is sixty nine.

The following table exhibits the average standing in scholarship of the several classes of this school, and their relative standing in the several departments of instruction; also, the average of the classes as at present constituted:

The officers of the first primary school are a principal and two assistant teachers, who give instruction in the branches which are required for promotion to the academical department. The school is subdivided into six classes, two of which are under the care of each teacher. The number under instruction in this school, at the date of the last report, was one hundred and one. During the year, twenty two have been promoted to the academical department; four have been bound out; three dismissed; one deceased; and thirty have been admitted. The number at present is one hundred and one. The following tabular statement exhibits the studies and averages of the classes of this school:

The second primary school is subdivided into eight classes, which are under the instruction of a principal and three assistant teachers, and are taught in the branches which are required for promotion at the academical department. Its course of study is parallel and equal to that of the first primary. The number of pupils on the last catalogue was one hundred and thirty; twelve have been admitted during the year, and three have been dismissed—leaving the number at present one hundred and thirty nine. The studies of the classes, with their average age, and their proficiency in the various branches taught, are exhibited in the following table:

The third primary school consists of two classes, under the instruction of one teacher. For all practical purposes it forms a division of the first primary school; and, did it not occupy a different building, it might, without disadvantage, be merged in that school. At the date of the last report it contained twenty pupils. During the year, fifteen have been advanced to the first primary, and thirty four have been admitted—making the number at present thirty nine. As the pupils are quite young, and many of them are just beginning to read, a high average of scholarship is not to be expected. The following table exhibits the average age and standing of the classes.

PRIMARY SCHOOL NO. 3.

A comparison of the general averages of the schools, with the corresponding averages as reported in the tables a year since, shows a decided improvement during the past year.

The officers of the household are a matron, assistant matron, five prefects, four governesses, a steward, two physicians and a dentist. For domestic care and training the orphans are divided into eight sections, four of which, containing sixty pupils each, are under the care of prefects; and four, of thirty pupils each, are supervised by governesses. When vacancies occur in the higher sections, they are filled by promoting from the lower those who are most advanced in age and attainments, in such manner that, so far as may be practicable, each section shall consist of pupils of nearly equal intelligence. When new pupils are admitted to the college, they are assigned to the sections of the governesses, where they remain until they are sufficiently advanced to be promoted to the section of a prefect. Members of the same section are seated together at table and in the chapel, and sleep in contiguous dormitories. The prefects and governesses have the care and supervision of the orphans at all times when they are not with their teachers. They are therefore to a great extent responsible for the moral instruction and training of the boys; and the cultivation of modesty, propriety, purity, truth, and the benevolent affections, will depend very much upon their fidelity, intelligence and skill. Their position as officers of the college is one of no secondary importance, and the influence which they exert upon the minds and hearts of the pupils will be powerful and abiding. The Directors are aware that the duties which devolve upon these officers, as well as the will of Mr. Girard, require that they, no less than the officers of the schools, should be persons of tried skill in the discipline and moral training of youth.

Sensible that a wise, firm and uniform administration of discipline is indispensable for success in the instruction of every class, and for the good order of every room in the Institution, the Directors have not failed to sustain and strengthen the authority of the officers of the college, both by their personal influence and their official acts. While they believe that the best government is that which most effectually prevents offences against its laws with the least frequent use of punishments, and that affectionate counsel and admonition will sometimes restrain the disorderly and reform the vicious when the infliction of penalties would fail, they have not hesitated to remove from the College those who would not be corrected by mild means, and whose conduct made them unfit companions for the rest of the orphans. Experience has demonstrated that with a large majority of our pupils, rewards for good conduct and industry are stronger incentives than penalties for disobedience and idleness; and that as rewards are multiplied and made attainable by reasonable effort, in nearly the same ratio will the necessity for punishments diminish. In accordance with these views, the Directors have authorized the President to grant monthly, to deserving pupils, some special indulgence or gratification, such as a visit to their friends, or to institutions and other places of interest in and near the city, in addition to the usual premiums which are annually distributed. The good effect of this is already manifest in all the schools; and as these rewards incur but little expense, they may be extended and multiplied as the efforts of the pupils to obtain them shall increase.

At the annual distribution of premiums, which took place on the thirtieth of December, forty seven pupils received a donation of books for good conduct and scholarship; forty two, for good conduct and improvement in scholarship; twenty seven, for scholarship and improvement in conduct; ten, for good scholarship alone; eighty, for improvement both in conduct and scholarship; fifteen, for improvement in conduct; and twenty four, for improvement in scholarship; making a total of two hundred and eighty two premiums. In former years a pupil was required to attain a standing of 7.50 to entitle him to a premium for good conduct, and of 7.00 to entitle him to a premium for scholarship; but at the last distribution a standing of 8.00 was required in conduct, and 7.70 in scholarship.

Several changes have taken place during the year in the corps of officers. George Stewart has been appointed instructor in English studies in the place of Joseph C. Turner, resigned; Joseph T. Pratt, prefect, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Marvin E. Clark; William G. Fischer, teacher of vocal music and prefect, in the place of Henry Riehle, resigned; and Samuel Overn, steward, in the place of William Field.

Some improvements in the buildings and on the grounds have been made during the year, which will add to the efficiency of the schools and the comfort of the household. In the main building the south-west school room, on the second floor, has been divided into two rooms by a partition wall, and the new rooms ceiled with plastered ceilings, to prevent the reverberation of sound from the arches. This improvement has obviated the inconvenience, to which the schools had been subjected before, of two teachers occupying a room, with their classes, at one and the same time. In the third story of the same building two rooms have been fitted up for the use of the teachers of mathematics and drawing, and certain alterations made to promote the free admission of air and light. This change will prevent the inconvenience and waste of time, caused heretofore by the necessity of sending a part of the classes of the academical department to recite their lessons in No. 5—a building remote from their principal school room, and will render the rooms on the second floor of that building available for other uses. All the new school rooms have the most approved arrangements for warming and ventilation.

The new infirmary has been finished and partially furnished; the grounds around it, graded; gravel roads, made; shade trees, set out; a brick pavement, laid; and a fence, between the grounds of the infirmary and the vegetable garden, constructed. A gravel road, with brick and stone gutters, has been made along the south front of the buildings known as Nos. 3 and 4, and the pavement substantially curbed. Wooden trunks, or air passages, have been placed in the basement of No. 3, to supply that building with fresh air. A pavement of brick has been laid north of the yards which separate the buildings known as Nos. 1 and 2; and the dwelling occupied by Professor Becker and family, has been painted and papered, and alterations made in the fixtures for gas, water and fire in the basement thereof.

Other improvements are very desirable, and will be made as soon as means shall be placed at the disposal of the Board for the purpose. Among these may be enumerated gas lights along the north front of the buildings; a gravel road along the north front of the buildings designated as Nos. 1 and 2, and along the west side of No. 2, to meet the road running eastward from the gate; the grading and draining of the play ground; the substitution of gravel or sand for the clay surface of the ground north of the main building, where the pupils take their recreation during recess from school; a swimming pond or pool; a gymnasium; and a workshop. The Directors earnestly solicit from Councils such appropriations as will enable them to make these improvements, especially the five last mentioned, which are designed to promote the health, comfort and physical development of the pupils. The condition of the play ground is such as to render it useless during about one third of each year, except at the risk of the health of the orphans. The appliances and facilities for exercise and recreation are too limited, both in number and extent. While ample provision has been made for the mental culture and moral instruction of the orphans, adequate appropriations have not hitherto been made for their physical education and training. The Directors are of opinion that while a well-furnished and properly conducted gymnasium unites exercise with recreation, it tends to develop the muscles symmetrically, to improve the health, to strengthen the constitution, and give elasticity and grace to the movements of the body. It is known that several of the leading educational institutions in this country are providing apparatus for gymnastic exercises, and instruction in its use; and it is the wish of the Directors that Girard College may equal the best of them in the completeness and efficiency of its means and methods of forming "sound minds in sound bodies."

A workshop, in which the orphans might learn to use their hands while they are learning to use their heads, is almost as necessary as a gymnasium. The greater part of the pupils will be indentured to learn mechanical occupations, and some skill in the handling of tools acquired before they leave the college, would make them more desirable and efficient as apprentices, and consequently increase the demand for them. It is believed that many of the older pupils would prefer the shop to the play-ground as a place of recreation, and that the practical knowledge which they would there acquire, would be such as Mr. Girard intended when he said that they should learn "facts and things."

The number of apprentices registered in the last catalogue, as under indentures to learn an occupation, was one hundred and eighty seven. Since the date of the last report twenty eight have been bound out, the indentures of one have been canceled, two have died, and the term of apprenticeship of forty six has expired. The present number of apprentices is one hundred and sixty six, of whom one hundred and three are bound to persons residing in the City of Philadelphia, and sixty three are with masters residing in other parts of Pennsylvania. Of the whole number of apprentices eighty one reside in the families of their masters, and eighty five with their friends and other approved persons.

The following statement shows the number now under indentures in each occupation.

The letters which have been received in answer to inquiries addressed to the masters for information as to the progress and deportment of their apprentices, are generally satisfactory. A few of these are herewith submitted, as proof of the estimation in which apprentices from this Institution are held.

A statement of the appropriations made for the support of the college, and the expenditures during the year, has been prepared by the Secretary and is herewith submitted. While scrupulous care has been taken that the expenditures should not exceed the appropriations in any department or item, the aggregate of unexpended balances which have been returned to the fund, is more than twenty six hundred dollars.

In conclusion, the Directors would renew to Councils the expression of their confidence in the continued usefulness of this great scheme of benevolence, in the fidelity and skill of its officers, and in the increasing ability of the Institution, with the favor of Divine Providence, to contribute to the material and moral prosperity of the community.

SAMUEL H. PERKINS,

President of the Board of Directors.

Respectfully submitted,

HENRY W. AREY.

Sec'y Girard College.

GIRARD COLLEGE, Feb'y 9th, 1860.

LETTERS.

[From W. STRUTHERS, Marble Mason, Philadelphia.]

January 31, 1860.

DEAR SIR:—In reply to your inquiry in regard to Henry E. Wrigley, I have the great pleasure to reply, that he is all I would ask; he is making rapid progress in his profession, is obedient, punctual and honest in every way, and will I am sure, if spared, be an ornament to society and reflect credit on your institution.

Very respectfully,

WM. STRUTHERS.

[From HENRY BARTON, Farmer, Lancaster County.]

SIR:—In answer to your letter of inquiry in regard to the lads from the College under my care, I reply, that Wm. Ebert, is making satisfactory progress in his profession. He is faithful, honest, and obliging, willing to be taught, and ready to act.

Wm. Sharp, whom I have had about a year, is all I could expect or desire in a lad of his age. He is quick, ready and active, and is making rapid progress in his profession.

In short, I am perfectly satisfied with both the lads, and doubt not they will make good farmers; they are truthful, faithful and honest, and conform cheerfully to the discipline of the household of which they are members. They attend church and bible class whenever practicable, and are orderly in their manners. They never absent themselves from home, unless by my direction, and in all cases act creditably to themselves, and the institution in which they were educated.

Respectfully yours,

HENRY BARTON.

January 23d, 1860.

[From SPENCER ROBERTS, Dentist, Philadelphia.]

Philadelphia, Jan. 26th, 1860.

DEAR SIR:—In answer to the questions submitted by the Directors of the Girard College, respecting the boy James M. Gordon, I have but little to add to my last year's report, but can truly say that all the questions can be answered to his credit and advantage. He continues faithful, kind, respectful and industrious, and I think makes good progress in the business of his choice.

Respectfully yours,

SPENCER ROBERTS,

Dentist,

No. 424 North Sixth street,

Philadelphia.

[From ERNST WERNER, Fresco Painter, Philadelphia.]

Philadelphia, Jan. 12th, 1860.

DEAR SIR:—This being my last report of David Vetter, I most cheerfully give you the assurance that he has been during all his apprenticeship to me, in his conduct and progress in his business, an honor to your institution.

Yours respectfully,

ERNST WERNER.

[From Y. S. WALTER, Chester.]

Republican Office, Chester, Jan. 2d, 1860.

DEAR SIR:—Yours of the 20th is at hand.

It affords me much satisfaction to say, that Henry Crosby, a pupil of your institution, now learning the printing business in my office, is all that could be required of a faithful apprentice. He is diligent, obedient, and faithful to my interests, has made good progress in his trade, has never been absent, without leave, and keeps good hours. He resides in my family, and is in every respect a member thereof, as much so as one of my own children.

I have had two boys from your institution, both of whom by their course, of conduct, reflect credit upon their teachers and the very excellent school from which they graduated.

Very respectfully yours,

Y. S. WALTER.

[From P. S. DECHERT, Printer, Chambersburg.]

Valley Spirit Office, Chambersburg, Jan. 10, 1860.

DEAR SIR:—Your letter in relation to the conduct, progress, &c., of John L. Gink, who has been in my employ for several years, has been received. In answer to your interrogatories I will briefly state, that I have nothing to say but what is commendable. Thus far he has fully satisfied all my expectations.

Respectfully yours,

P. S. DECHERT.

[From JOHN A. WRIGHT, Manufacturer of Iron, Lewistown.]

Lewistown, Jan. 10, 1860.

DEAR SIR:—I take pleasure in again returning favorable answers to your queries, as to W. W. Wallace.

Yours &c.,

JOHN A. WRIGHT.

[From S. W. THACKARA, Conveyancer, Philadelphia.]

Philadelphia, January 16, 1860.

DEAR SIR:—In reply to your circular letter dated the 20th of December, and received early this month, it affords me pleasure to say, that the general deportment of William C. Stove, during the time he has been with me (since October 1858,) has been satisfactory to me, and creditable to himself. He has been civil, faithful and obedient, willing to do, and desirous to learn. As it is essential that those who engage in the business he has selected, should be able to write a good and free hand, I have, in order to enable the Directors and yourself to see what progress William has made in that branch of the business, requested him to copy this reply. I send it written in his own hand.

He resides with his sisters, who take great interest in his welfare, and as I have never heard anything to the contrary, have reason to believe that his conduct at home, and mode of spending his leisure hours, are satisfactory to them.

He attends public worship at Dr. Newton's, St. Paul's Episcopal Church, and belongs to a Bible Class under the charge of Thomas A. Latimer Esq., attached to the church.

I remain with respect, &c.,

S. W. THACKARA.

[From L. C. FRANCIS, Manufacturer of Philosophical Instruments.]

Philadelphia, January 24, 1860.

DEAR SIR:—Your circular of the 20th ultimo, affords me the pleasure of testifying to the merits of Charles Milligan. He has applied himself diligently to his occupation, and is in every respect faithful. He has never been absent except from sickness, his hours of recreation have been passed in study; he has resided with my family, has kept good hours, and is well behaved and cleanly in his habits. His term expires in February, when I hope he may ever prove an honor to your institution, which is the sincere wish of

Yours truly,

L. C. FRANCIS,
724 Sansom street.

[From JAMES L. BISPHAM, Druggist, Philadelphia.]

Philadelphia, December 31, 1859.

DEAR SIR:—In compliance with your request, as proceeding from the Board of Directors of the Girard College, contained in your favor of December 20th, I hasten to reply to your queries concerning the deportment and progress of William Ball, the only lad from your institution now in my employ as an apprentice. His conduct has been generally very satisfactory, and his advancement in acquiring a knowledge of the business, creditable. Never having been absent from his post without my knowledge and consent, I feel well assured that his hours of leisure are profitably spent. Altogether his general behaviour is not only such as I approve, but has inspired a high degree of confidence in those with whom he is thrown in contact.

Very respectfully,

JAMES L. BISPHAM,
710 South Second street.

[From JOS. KEMP, Farmer and Surveyor, Hollidaysburg.]

Hollidaysburg, December 31st, 1859.

DEAR SIR:—Your circular letter of the 20th is to hand, making inquiries as to the conduct and deportment of Arthur C. Gilbert, a pupil apprenticed to me. In answer to your first inquiry, I have the pleasure to report that he fulfills my expectations.

2d. Inquiry. He has never absented himself at any time without my previous consent.

3d. He is nearly always in my own house reading, or in some proper amusement when not engaged; or if out in the evening, is at the meeting of some literary club, where they engage in debates, and I think he is never in the society of immoral or vicious young men. His associates are all proper companions.

4th. He resides in my family in this town, and submits to all its discipline, attends public and family worship, is neat and careful of his person, orderly and well behaved, having my full approbation in all particulars. His deportment and promise meets the approbation of all who know him.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH KEMP.

[From JOHN C. BROWN, Merchant, Chester county.]

Coatsville, January 11th, 1860.

DEAR SIR:—Yours of the 20th ult. is now before me, and in answer to the enclosed inquiry I would say, that George W. Wakefield, my apprentice, applies himself faithfully to business, is civil and obedient, and has made as rapid progress in business as I could expect.

He has never absented himself from business without my knowledge and approbation.

I have cause to believe that his hours of leisure are profitably spent, viz: in attending places of worship, reading useful books, &c. His general associates are such as I approve of; he resides in my own family, and is subject to my rules of discipline; he is faithful in attending public worship; his morals are correct; he has also connected himself with the M. E. Church, in this place, and I believe is trying to serve the Lord.

Yours very respectfully,

JOHN C. BROWN.

[From R. BUIST, Horticulturist, Philadelphia.]

Philadelphia, January 12th, 1860.

DEAR SIR:—I have overlooked yours of the 20th ult. till now. The favorable reply I give you must be my apology on this occasion.

James La Serre, continues to give entire satisfaction in every respect.

He has never been absent without my consent. His mother died the past month; he now resides with his sister. His associates are proper as far as I can learn. He attends public worship, he is exceedingly cleanly in his person, and regular in his habits.

He is progressing very favorably in his business, and is in all things a very good card for the institution from whence he came.

Yours very respectfully,

R. BUIST,

924 Market street.

[From S. H. HARTMAN, Manufacturer of Iron, Pittsburgh.]

Allegheny City, January 7th, 1860.

DEAR SIR:—Your favor of the 20th ultimo, requesting information about William Brunt, is received. I am pleased to say, that he is getting along very well; he is very quiet and modest. In writing and figuring he has improved much the past year; he makes out the pay roll without any assistance.

Very truly,

S. H. HARTMAN.

[From JAMES A. MONTGOMERY, Farmer, Chester County.]

New London, January 9th, 1860.

DEAR SIR:—In reply to yours of December 20th, I am happy to be able to answer favorably to the various questions proposed respecting my two apprentices.

John Bussinger will be of age in about two months, and it gives me much pleasure to be able to say of him, that he has served me faithfully, is a young man of excellent moral character, and is much esteemed by all who know him.

Your friend, &c.,

JAMES A. MONTGOMERY.

[From T. FITZGERALD, Printer, Philadelphia.]

Office Fitzgerald's City Item, January 3d, 1860.

DEAR SIR:—Daniel Kane O'Donnell, a graduate of Girard College, came to live with me in 1857.

He is a young gentleman of much promise, amiable, industrious, orderly, temperate, honest, sincere and manly.

I have the highest hopes of his future.

Respectfully,

THOMAS FITZGERALD.

[From W. C. MURPHY, Painter, Philadelphia.]

Philadelphia, December 29th, 1859.

GENTLEMEN:—In answer to your letter of inquiry of 20th inst. just received, in regard to the late pupil of your College, John Bowen, who was indentured an apprentice to me some three years since by the managers of your excellent institution, I most cheerfully reply,

That he does generally apply himself diligently to his occupation, and has made very good progress in the acquirement of his trade, and should he continue in the course he has pursued, he will make both a good and fast workman.

He has never been absent except when in the heat of summer I have sent him to the country or "the fishing banks" for recreation, and never for a longer time than three weeks.

His hours, when not engaged in business, are generally spent in reading, he having access to the Apprentices' Library.

He submits cheerfully to the discipline of the household, keeps good hours, and is very seldom out in the evening except to school.

I believe him to be correct in his morals. On the sabbath day he has permission, and generally visits his mother's family, and attends church with them.

He has improved in cleanliness of person, is orderly in his habits, and his behavior is generally such as I approve.

He is now grown to be a large, stout, healthy boy, much above the average size at his age.

Very respectfully yours, &c ,

WM. C. MURPHY,

House and Sign Painter, No. 47 South Third street,
Philadelphia.

[From B. EWEN, Druggist, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia.]

Chestnut Hill, January 7th, 1860.

DEAR SIR:—Your letter of the 20th December did not come to hand until the 5th of January, in consequence of its having been directed to Mount Airy instead of Chestnut Hill.

Since the little difficulty (which you will remember,) my apprentice Wm. S. Everton, has conducted himself in a very satisfactory manner, and has made such progress as can be reasonably expected of him. He resides in my family, is never from my business except by permission, he attends public worship once every Sabbath, and is a member of a bible class which meets once in the week. He is orderly, civil and obedient, and his general behavior is such as I approve.

Yours respectfully,

B. EWEN.

[From MESSRS. WILCOX & DELLEKER, Brokers, Philadelphia.]

Philadelphia, February 14th, 1860.

No. 404 Chestnut street.

DEAR SIR:—In reply to your usual circular, I would state that Charles Vollum applies himself diligently to his occupation, is civil faithful and obedient, and has made such progress as was reasonably to be expected of him. To question second, I answer in the negative. To question third, I answer, that to the best of my knowledge, his hours are generally properly spent, and his associates are proper companions. To question fourth, I answer, he resides with his brother-in-law, and it is presumed he submits to the discipline of the household, and keeps good hours, and attends public worship. Result as follows: He is correct in his morals, cleanly in his person, orderly in his habits, and his general behavior is such as I approve.

Yours respectfully,

EDMUND WILCOX.

[From DR. THOMAS JONES, Druggist, Philadelphia.]

Philadelphia, January 6th, 1860.

DEAR SIR:—I am in receipt of yours of the 20th ultimo, asking information in regard to the conduct and progress of Joseph R. Coryell, and in reply I will say,

1st. That he does apply himself to his business, and is civil, faithful and obedient, and has made very fair progress in learning.

2d. He has never deserted, neither has he absented himself for more than a few hours, and then not without leave.

3d. He has very little opportunity of going out. I give him Thursday evenings, and every other Sunday, and I have every reason to believe that those hours are not improperly spent, and that his associates are all that I could wish.

4th. He lives with my family, and he submits to the discipline of our household, he keeps good hours, is correct in his morals, cleanly in his person, orderly in his habits, and his general behavior is good, and as he goes home to his mother every other Sunday, I have no doubt that he attends to some place of worship, in fact he says he belongs to a bible class. In short, he tries to do his best to please.

Respectfully yours,

THOMAS JONES, M. D.

[From WELLS, RIDDLE & Co., Whip Manufacturers, York County.]

Wellsville, January 19th, 1860.

DEAR SIR:—In reply to your inquiries for the year 1859, in regard to the boys, we would respectfully say, that Joseph Hopson, John Raphun, and William McClellan, are all obedient and dutiful, and are making rapid progress in their trade.

They all live with members of the firm and keep good hours. They attend Sabbath school and public worship tolerably regular.

Very respectfully yours,

WELLS, RIDDLE & Co.

[From CLEMENT JAGGARD, Merchant, Altoona.]

Altoona, Penna., January 17th, 1860.

DEAR SIR: In answer to your favor, as to Henry Wonderly, I would say to your first inquiry, that he has been diligent in attending to his duties, and in the main, is civil and obedient, and has I think made reasonable progress.

He has never been absent from my business; his time when not engaged in business is spent, I believe, with suitable companions, and in reading good books.

In answer to your last general inquiry, I have no reason to complain of his behavior in my family. He is a member of the M. E. Church, and is a regular attendant there. To the other inquiries I answer in the affirmative.

Very respectfully yours,
CLEMENT JAGGARD.

[From JOSEPH WATERMAN, Plumber and Gas-fitter, Philadelphia.]

Philadelphia, January 19th, 1860.

DEAR SIR:—In answer to the inquiries contained in yours of the 16th ultimo, in regard to the lads from your institution in my employ, I would state that the general deportment of William A Harvie is such as meets my entire approval. He is civil, faithful and obedient. He has made excellent progress during the past year, and bids fair to become master of his trade. He has never deserted nor been absent from my employ without leave. In short, he is such a boy as I can safely recommend any where.

Yours respectfully,
JOSEPH WATERMAN,
Plumber and Gas Fitter,
No. 1116 Girard avenue.

[From MESSRS. WAIT & CROCKER, Watch Case Engravers, Phila]

Philadelphia, January 19th, 1860.

DEAR SIR:—Your communication of December 20th, was duly received, and in answer to the various questions, I answer to the first, yes; second, no; third, from what we can ascertain, he has so far conducted himself, when absent from our immediate control, satisfactory. He boards with his mother.

We feel perfectly satisfied up to the present time with the conduct of the lad John Mitchell. He has a taste for the art in which he is engaged, and with proper attention and diligence on his part, will make a good artist.

Yours respectfully,
WAIT & CROCKER.

[From W. M. REILLY, Druggist, Philadelphia.]

Philadelphia, January 20th, 1860.

DEAR SIR :—In accordance with the desires of the Directors of the Girard College, requesting information as to the general conduct and advancement, &c., of John Givens, a pupil from the college, I am able to report favorably to the queries contained in your recent communication.

Faithfully yours,
WM. M. REILLY.

[From JOHN MURRAY, Farmer, Cannonsburg.]

February 8th, 1860.

DEAR SIR :—In answer to your letter requesting information respecting Daniel Bussinger's conduct, I beg to reply ; 1st, you ask is he diligent in his business, and is he civil, faithful and obedient, has he made reasonable progress ; to these I say yes, he has. Second, has he deserted or been absent ; to which I say, no. Third, how are his hours spent when not engaged in business, and are his associates suitable ? He is never away scarcely ; and at night he reads and sings, and his companions are generally good. 4th, he resides with us and submits to discipline, keeps good hours, and attends preaching ; and is correct in his morals, tolerably cleanly in his person, and orderly in his habits. His general behavior is good, and such as I can approve.

Yours with respect,
JOHN MURRAY.

[From P. B. WILSON, Merchant, Bellefonte.]

Bellefonte, January 14th, 1860.

DEAR SIR :—I received your communication a few days since requesting me to give you answers and other information relative to the pupil, Isaac Mitchell. It affords me much pleasure to say, that he has, ever since he has been with me, conducted and acquitted himself in all respects so to answer in the affirmative to all the questions propounded. He has been with me a little over two years, and has improved very much in his writing, and his qualifications for business cannot easily be surpassed by one of his age. I think I was very fortunate in getting the boy I did.

Yours respectfully,
P. B. WILSON.

[From MESSRS. PEROT & Co., Wholesale Druggists, Philadelphia.]

DEAR SIR :—We can fully endorse last year's report in regard to J. W. Moore; the other lads having been with us but a short time, although doing very well, have hardly yet developed themselves. No complaint to make, however, in the least.

Yours truly,

PEROT & CO
